

FARM CREDIT OF CENTRAL FLORIDA NOW OFFERS CROP INSURANCE

Farm Credit of Central Florida is licensed through the state of Florida to sell crop insurance. This financial service is a great benefit to our Member/Borrowers who will experience the same high level of service they currently enjoy in their lending relationship with the association.

Since the 1930s the federal government has had a hand in providing Multiple Peril Crop Insurance to U.S. Farmers. While agricultural producers select the coverage amount of their crop insurance and choose the policy structure just like any other property insurers, the federal government sets the policy provisions and rates for crop insurance.

Also called yield insurance and APH (Actual Production History) insurance, Multiple Peril Crop Insurance, or MPCI, is the first crop insurance plan developed and rated by USDA. Today it is delivered by private insurance companies and agents MPCI protects against yield losses. Indemnity (Loss) payments are made if actual production is below the yield guaranteed in the insurance policy.

Farm Credit of Central Florida will write policies through Rain and Hail Insurance Service, Inc. Rain and Hail is an employee-owned managing general agency. The company began operation in 1919 as the Rain and Hail Insurance Bureau then changed from a company-owned managing general agency in 1981.

Rain and Hail is comprised of eight division offices in the United States, one in Canada and one in Brazil. The corporate office, located in Johnston, Iowa, provides for the overall liaison and coordination of the organization. The ten division offices are responsible for the marketing, underwriting, claims, and servicing of insurance.

Rain and Hail offers Multiple Peril Crop Insurance (MPCI) Crop-Hail coverage, Farm Property and Casualty Coverage and various other specialty and niche products.

Farm Credit of Central Florida's Financially Related Services Manager is Jennifer Parrish. Jennifer, who grew up on her parents' Parrish Nursery in South Florida, has been with the cooperative since March 2009. She is a graduate of the University of Florida, earning a degree in Horticulture specializing in Nursery Management. While in school, she interned at different nurseries around the state and really fell in love with the industry and agriculture.

If you have crop insurance questions you can ask your loan officer or contact Jennifer by calling 1-866-245-3637 or via e-mail at JParrish@FarmCreditCFL.com.
